FedStore and Dot Hill Form Strategic Alliance to Further Expand Their Businesses in U.S. Federal Marketplace

Washington DC, Dec , 2009 – FedStore Corporation, a leading IT VAR in the federal marketplace, and Dot Hill Systems (Nasdaq:HILL) today announced a strategic alliance to mutually benefit both companies by offering Dot Hill data storage solutions to the U.S. federal government on the NASA Solutions for Enterprise-Wide Procurement IV (SEWP IV) contract through FedStore.

Since 2001, FedStore has provided IT integration services for the federal government, with a focus on information security, data storage, networking, and consulting. As a prime contract holder on NASA's SEWP IV GWAC, FedStore works with a host of government agencies and end-users to design, deliver and support information technology solutions within the federal government market. FedStore has strategic alliances with leading IT providers like Cisco, HP, Dell, and others to offer the latest in technology solutions.

"We're working hard to distinguish ourselves by bringing innovation and a fresh approach to the delivery of IT product solutions in the federal market," said Andrew Cayouette, VP Sales at FedStore. "Dot Hill offers rugged storage solutions that are Department of Defense MIL-SPEC 810F certified. Working together, we will be able to create more exposure for Dot Hill storage while providing our Federal customers industry leading products they need.

"We are pleased to work with an organization named on Washington Technology magazine's 2009 "FAST 50" list as one of the fastest growing companies providing solutions to the government market space," stated Andy Mills, vice president of marketing, Dot Hill Systems. "Having FedStore include our family of DoD MIL STD 810F compliant storage arrays on the NASA SEWP IV contract paves an easier procurement path for federal customers that require the added sense of robustness and security that rugged storage solutions can provide their applications."
